

The Reach Center — outdoor signage for a community center.

the Reach Garden

Watch the Bees, Feel the Dirt, Pull a Weed, Eat a Berry, Water a Seedling!

The Reach Garden is here for the neighbors and any visitor that stops by. Feel free to sit on the bench, walk anywhere you like, pull some weeds if you have time and, by all means, harvest something for dinner if you see it is ripe.

If you don't have good sun at your place, join us here.

 In the future: more veggie beds, flowers, vines to hide secret benches, a picnic table, a greenhouse for winter greens and early starts, and more flowers!

It's all in the early stages so now is the time to help build a great urban farm.

Donations to the water fund, greenhouse construction, and participation in the random work parties are much appreciated.

Want to help? Contact info@reachcentereugene.com

Reach for a Poem!

READ IT OUT LOUD, READ IT IN BED, READ IT RIGHT NOW, READ IT TO FRIENDS!

Reach for a Poem provides a selection each month to walkers along Harris and 25th Streets.

Look for a growing number of such boxes in the neighborhood. Would you like a box in your yard? Would you like your poetry included?

Inquire at poetryeugene@gmail.com.

 Also visit the literary pages of www.amazonneighbors.com and www.laneliteraryguild.org.